Course description:	In addition to sharpening their existing linguistic skills, this course also creates the opportunity for students to learn and discuss about intellectually engaging content, which enables them to advance their English skills and at the same time, develop their critical thinking. The main book used in this course is the fourth one in the "Global" series, entitled "Global Upper-Intermediate", and in order to familiarize students with terms and a career-specific vocabulary, certain chapters taken from "English for Design Students" will also be utilized in lectures.
Objectives of the course:	The main aim of this course is to help students advance their English skills, with special emphasis on oral communication, as well as to introduce them to the terminology which pertains to their field of study.
Expected learning outcomes:	<ul> <li>Upon completion of this course, students should be able to:</li> <li>utilize the diverse techniques of oral communication in English</li> <li>read and comprehend with some difficulty texts in English which contain basic terminology pertaining to their field of study (such as various materials and structures, furniture, colors etc.)</li> <li>use critical thinking and awareness of the major challenges of the</li> </ul>
